

WHY WON'T GOOGLE PAUSE? ARE THEY AFRAID OF PUBLIC REVIEW?

Google's Bechtel partner has accelerated this surprise cemetery meadow construction. Carrboro's prior siting process had zero public participation because of Google's rush pressures.

This opacity led to a terrible site choice, which illustrates how Google will continue to pilfer parkland nationwide:

Google's partner towns may only nominate town-owned sites, which leads to parks being nominated, which leads to the poorside park being picked by Google. Why won't Google allow public utility sites and school district maintenance yards to be nominated?

Commissioners and councilors are concerned:
